UNCOPYABLE

The Indie Audience Lab · by Communitygeeks

Making games got easier. Getting players to care didn't.

Getting listed is easy. Getting found isn't. We help indie studios build their first audience before launch: players who follow the game, give feedback and tell their friends. No ad budget needed.

01 · Who it's for

Your store page is live. The wishlists barely move.

Your only playtesters are friends and family, and they're too kind to tell you what's broken.

All your time goes into the game, so the audience never gets started.

02 · How it works

Find your first fans

Find where your kind of player already gathers, and invite the first ones in.

Get people talking about your game

Give players reasons to come back, share ideas and recommend the game.

Build with your players

Run simple playtests and feedback loops. You keep creative direction.

Partner with small creators

Build real relationships with small Twitch and YouTube creators who fit your game.

Templates, examples and a 30-day action plan. AI tips only where they save time, never for your art.

03 · Ways to take part

Pilot · from December 2026

Self-paced kit

€149 per studio

Recorded lessons, templates and exercises.

Kit + group workshop

€299 per studio

The kit plus a live workshop on your audience plan.

Sponsored cohort

from €2,500 per cohort

Up to 10 studios. For associations, accelerators and programmes preparing studios for publishers.

Build something people care about. That's harder to copy.

Bring Uncopyable to your studios, or join as a studio:
carmelito@communitygeeks.de · communitygeeks.ai/uncopyable

Carmelito Bauer, founder of Communitygeeks. Experience includes DeepL, the European Commission's EU Academy and gaming communities for Tencent through ZAM.